PETITIONER: RESPONDENT:	CASE NUMBER:   CCRC DATE:
REQUEST FOR SEPARATE CCRC SESSION (FAMILY CODE §3181)

Although CCRC is typically accomplished through the simultaneous presence and participation of both parties to the court case, under certain specified conditions separate CCRC sessions may be arranged if either of the following conditions exist:

- 1) There is a history of domestic violence between the parties (as defined in Family Code 6211). The party allegedly suffering from domestic violence may request that separate CCRC sessions be performed.
- 2) There is in existence a protective restraining order against one of the parties. The party who is protected by that order may request that separate CCRC sessions be performed.

A party eligible for separate CCRC counseling sessions may, in the alternative, have a third party accompany him or her to a non-separate CCRC session and act as a support person.

A party inclined to request separate CCRC sessions or use a support person must inform Family Court Services of this desire by completing and returning this form as soon as possible.
